

Getting a Zoning Compliance Certificate

The Zoning Compliance Certificate confirms that your site plan and building plans comply with the Township's Zoning By-law. You need a Zoning Compliance Certificate to get a building permit.

You can apply for a certificate when you submit your complete building permit application package. Just pay the fee, and Planning Services will review the project.

Not ready to apply for a building permit? You can still get a head start on the zoning review. Fill out the Application for Zoning Compliance Certificate and drop off, mail or email it to Planning Services. You must include the following:

1. Completed application form
2. Application fee
3. Legible reference plan (survey) of the property
4. Legible site plan / plot plan
5. Legible building elevation and floor plans (the plans can be preliminary)
6. A copy of any planning approval (for example, minor variance) or agreement for the property (for example, development agreement)

Fees

- $110 non-refundable application fee for the original zoning certificate application
- $55 non-refundable fee for any revisions to an approved zoning certificate
- The fee can be paid in person, by mail or on-line

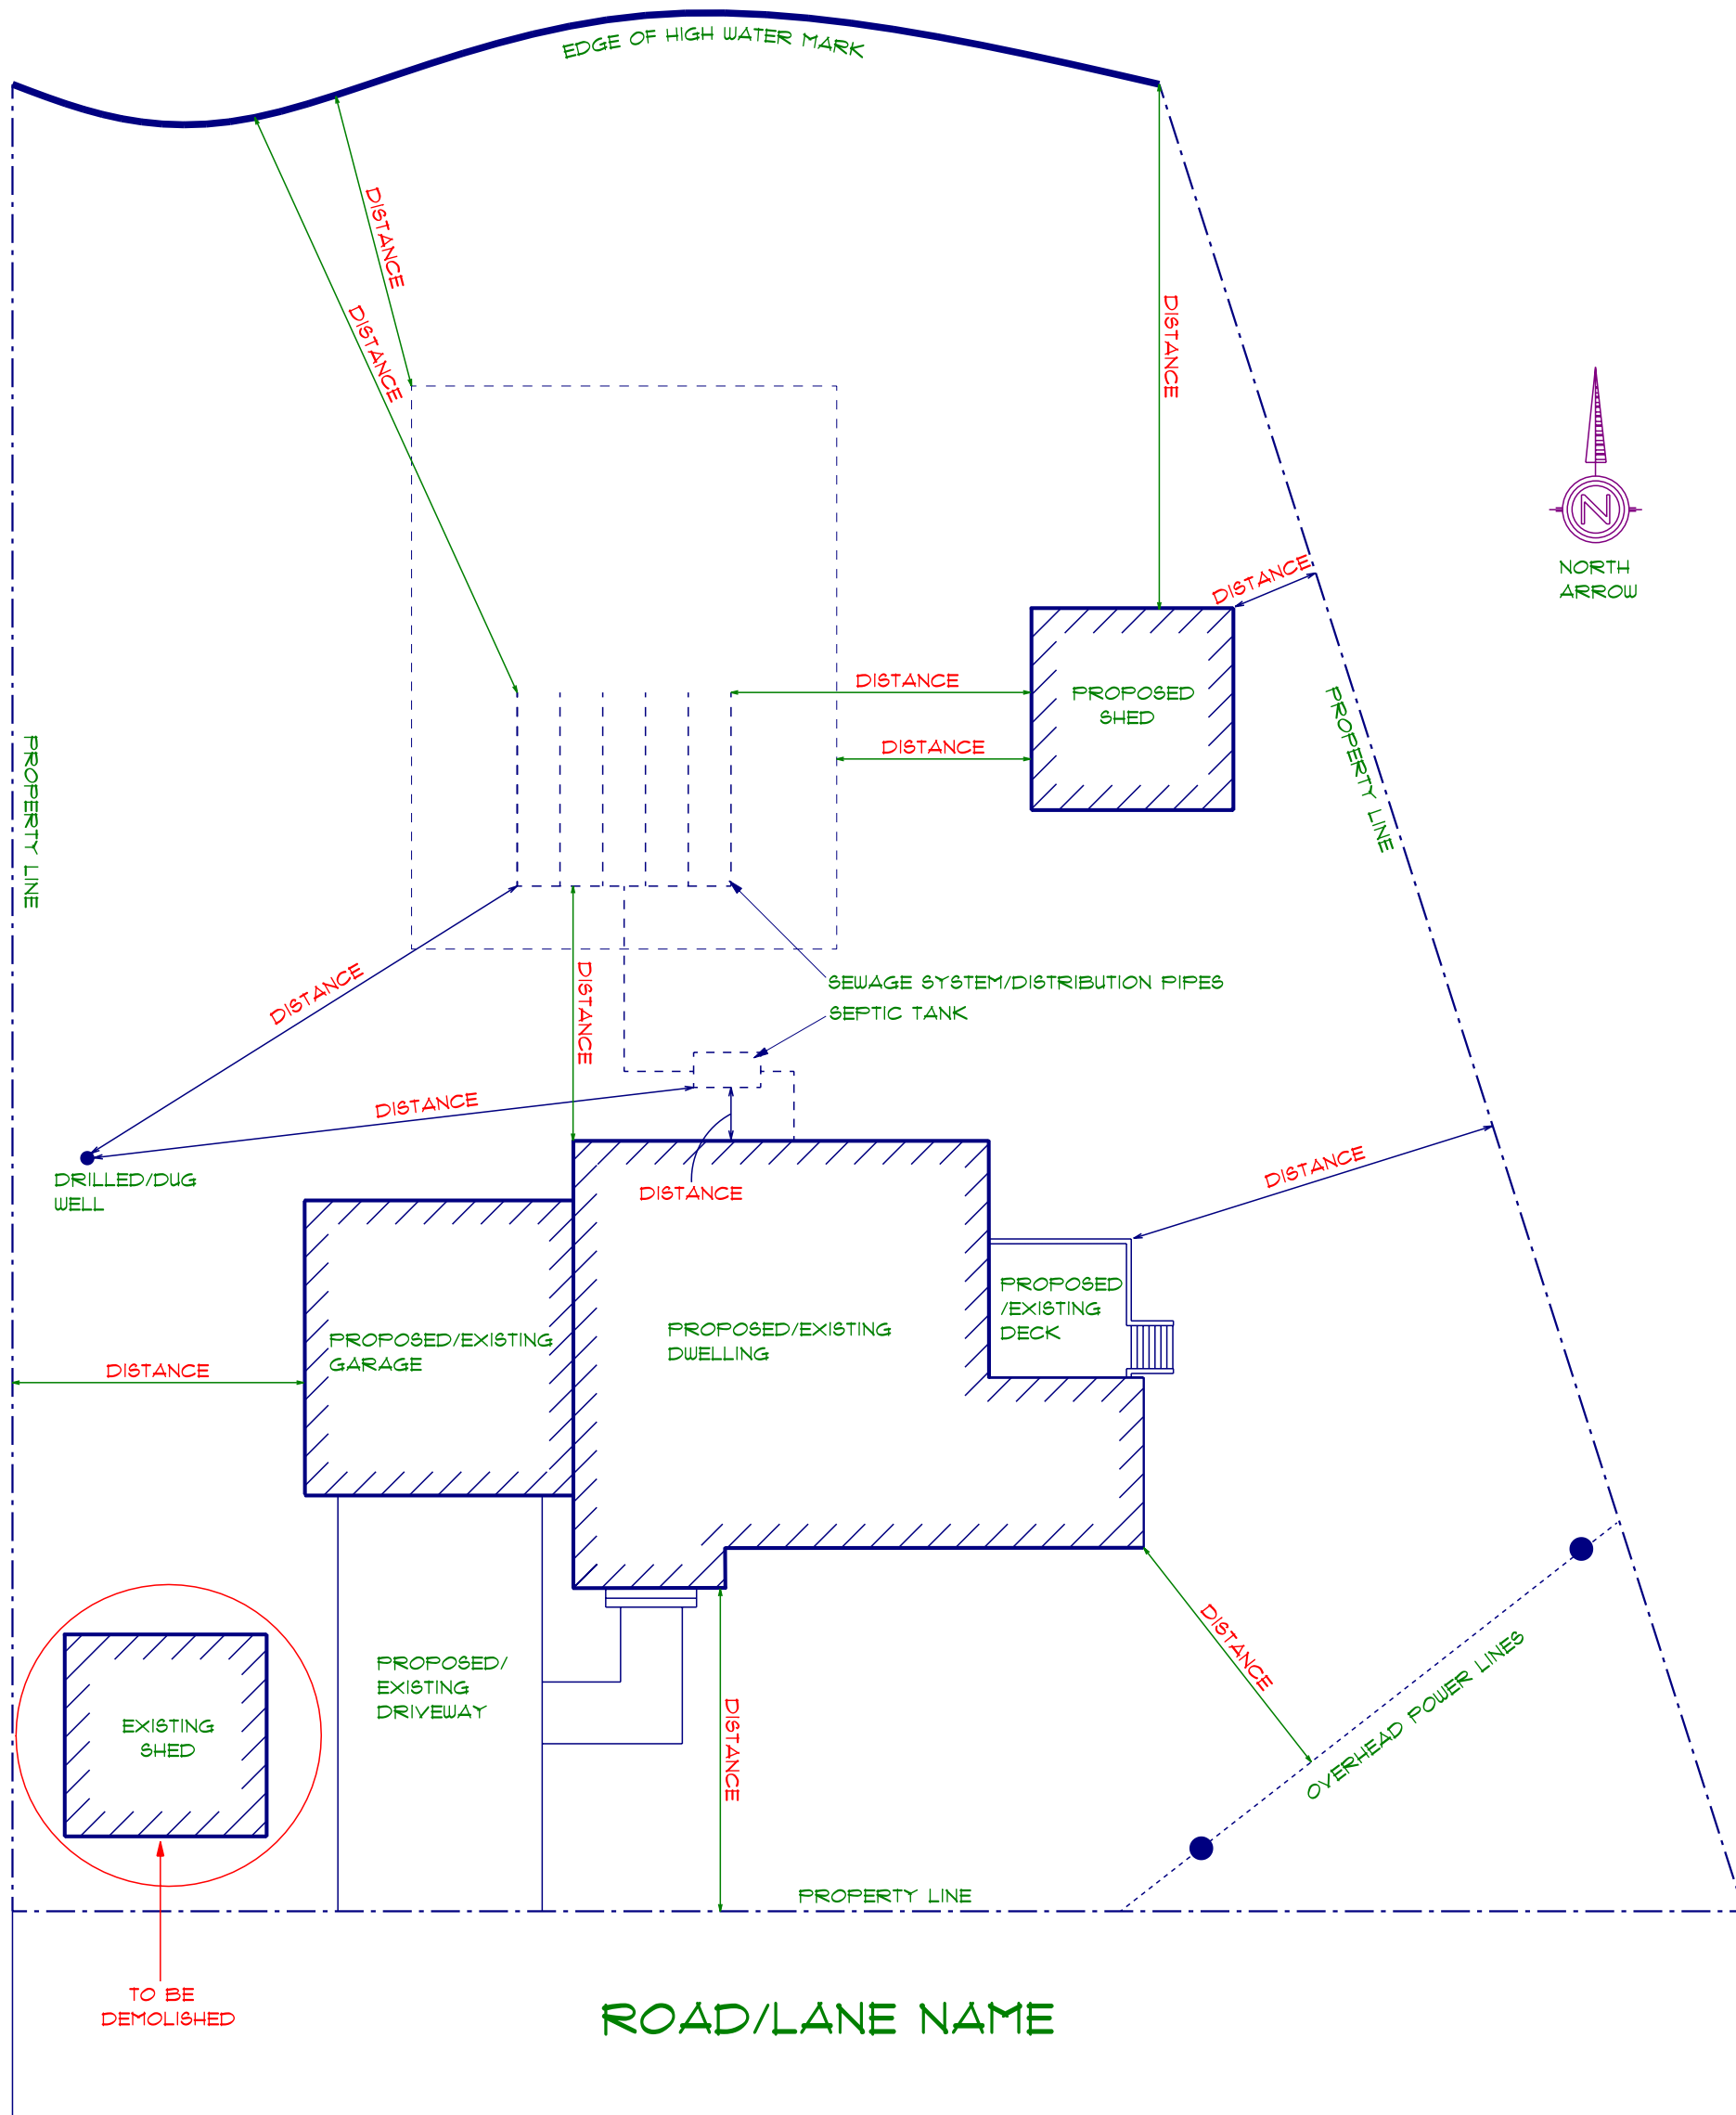

If the project does not comply, we will explain what changes or additional approvals are needed for it to become compliant.

A digital copy of the certificate will be sent to you and the Building Inspector if the project complies with the Zoning By-law and any agreements that apply to your property (for example, a subdivision agreement). You can request a paper copy.

The certificate will include stamped approved drawings. The certificate is valid for 12 months from the date of issue unless your proposal changes or the Township passes a new Zoning By-law.
